Ashley Woodall, production & packaging manager at Buy Whole Foods Online, one of the leading online shops for whole foods, health foods and superfoods, explains the benefits of Bodet's Kelio Visio X4 Time and Attendance System:

What was the challenge you were looking to overcome initially?

"One of the problems with a successful, rapidly growing business like ours is ensuring that management systems keep pace with the growing workforce. Each department recorded attendance using basic timesheets which had to be completed manually. These were then collated by department heads onto spreadsheets which were sent to accounts for the payroll. This was very time consuming, of limited accuracy and took little account of time taken for work breaks, so we felt it was time to automate the process"

What system was installed?

Bodet installed their latest interactive, biometric Kelio Visio X4 clocking-in terminals with supporting self-service software which included Absence Request and Personal Result modules. When staff start or end their shift, they simply place their finger onto the scanner which captures a fingerprint. This is automatically compared against a stored profile to identify the employee and the record time stamped and stored on the master database in real time.

What are the benefits of the equipment for your organisation?

"The Kelio Visio X4 system eliminates the need for staff to complete time sheets, and employees can also request holidays or time off, and review their personal attendance record directly from the terminal. We can also scan in sick notes and return to work forms, and all the data is recorded on the individual's personal file. This saves a lot of routine work for the HR staff and means managers can see directly from their PC if any staff are absent or late. The workforce have readily embraced it, and it engages them directly as they have an input using the touchscreens. Being a modular system means we can extend the system for visitors, and can add other management modules as the business continues to grow."
